1. The Fiume torpedo factory is working on equipment for a new radio-controlled torpedo. Entry to the department where the interior mechanism is under construction limited to holders of special permits, but elsewhere the fuselage of the torpedo can be seen. It is 3.65 meters in length, and oval in shape.
2. Trials were held monthly on "National type" torpedoes in Veglia, (gulf of Krik) with frequent negative results. The torpedo was finally perfected last summer upon the arrival of German specialists, and mass production was started in September 1948. There are three types of torpedoes. They are alike in shape and size, but differ in the strength of their charge.
